

6th Expert Conference

SCADA

SECURITY

The conference is part of the FUTURE FORCES FORUM

25 March 2026, Praha

Critical information infrastructure forms the backbone of modern society. With the growing number and severity of cybersecurity incidents, the demands on information protection are increasing. Industrial Control Systems (ICS) are a vital component of critical infrastructure; however, they still do not receive adequate attention, despite the fact that many cyberattacks in recent years have targeted ICS specifically.

Cybersecurity also plays a significant role in the Internet of Things (IoT), a network of physical devices, vehicles, home appliances, and other equipment equipped with electronics, software, sensors, actuators, and network connectivity that enables these devices to connect and exchange data.

This one-day expert conference will focus primarily on current issues in ICS security. It will build on previous security events organized within the FFF project and create a unique forum for partners and participants to discuss and exchange information and experience in the field of ICS and cybersecurity. It will seek alternative solutions to emerging challenges, particularly through the involvement of globally recognized experts in ICS and security systems.

Topics will include securing information systems, setting up processes for data protection, preventing cybersecurity incidents and events, and ensuring rapid response to incidents that organizations cannot avoid.

Conference Audience

The conference is primarily intended for the security, operations, and IT community of critical infrastructure; the public sector; security forces; and the private sector engaged in critical information infrastructure protection projects, with special emphasis on current cybersecurity issues. The conference will specifically address new obliged entities under the Cybersecurity Act.

Main Topics:

- Crisis management and crisis preparedness
- Current and future cyber threats and their mitigation
- New technological trends in ICS security
- New Cybersecurity Act and lessons learned from NIS2 implementation
